FATHER DALY RESIGNS FROM ORLAND PARISH

Rev. J. C. Daly S. J., who for the past year and a half has been in charge of the Catholic church in Orland has resigned and the work was taken up Sunday November 9th, by another Jesuit father, Rev. E. J. Zurlinden S. J.

Fr. Daly's duties at St. Ignatius College have kept him so busy that he could devote little time to church work. Fr. Zurlinden is an energetic man, full of zeal, and he is free to devote all his energies to parish duties. Much therefore can be expected from Fr. Zurlinden's administrations.

WORK ON NEW LIBERIA TO START IN TWO WEEKS SAYS LANE

According to information received from Mr. Lane of the Liberia Land and Development Association of Chicago work on the Colored Colony in New Lenox town ship is to be begun within the next two weeks.

Mr. Lane states that negotiations between his company and Mr. Chamberlain for the purchase of the latter's 445 acres of land are about to be definitely closed. Mr. Chamberlain has gone to California so the negotiations have been somewhat delayed in being completed.

ORLAND BOARD AND MAYOR TO ARBITRATE

Certain taxpayers of Orland have been much put out of late with the actions of the village board and consequently engaged Attorney A. H. Krusemark of Frankfort to see what could be done to settle the disputes between the board and Mayor Louis Ratschke.

The chief bone of contention which has caused the wrangle between the board and the mayor has been the pay of motorcycle cop, Albert Hentsch. The mayor had engaged the cop and later decided to dispense with his services, but the board refused to confirm the mayor's decision and consequently the motorcycle was retained.

Mayor Ratschke contended that he would not sign the voucher for Hentsch's pay and a deadlock between the mayor and the board resulted.

When the council was called to order Monday night quite a number of villagers were present and anticipated a lively meeting in which they were not disappointed.

After the meeting had gotten under way the board and the mayor clashed as usual and a motion was made for adjournment by George Yunker and seconded by Walter Schussler. At this point Attorney Krusemark asked for the floor and in an hour and half talk told the mayor and the board what they should do to settle their difficulties. He suggested that there are two ways in which to dispose claim and that is to either arbitrate or go to court. The board and the mayor finally agreed to arbitrate. A number of other questions were thrashed out and it is hoped that the village ship of state will now sail in more peaceful waters.

A committee was also present from the Raney sub-division relative to a road from the village to their properties. The board contended they could not take any action now until the water main extension improvement job which is to be started soon, is finished.

JAMES McNALLY NAMED POLICE CHIEF OF ORLAND

Orland now has a full fledged policeman for night duty. On Monday night the board appointed James McNally as police chief of Orland, his services to begin at once.

CHRIST BECHSTEIN OF MOKENA LEAVES A $110,000 ESTATE

The estate of the late Christ Bechstein of Mokena which is divided between his three daughters and one grandson, consists of approximately $110,000 in stocks, bonds, notes and cash, and 60 acres of timber land in New Lenox town ship, according to letters testamentary issued in the probate court.

Mr. Bechstein died Sept. 10 this year. In his will he provided that each of his three daughters, Mamie L. Miller, Alice P. Maue and Rose D. Moriarty are to have $6,000.

After these bequests have been paid and the other debts and expenses taken out the remainder of the estate is to be divided into fourths and distributed as follows:

One fourth to each of the three daughters. The remaining fourth is to be held in trust for Robert C. Mast a grandson of the testator, until he is twenty one years old, at which time one tenth of the fund is to be paid over to him. When he reaches the age of 25 he is to receive the remaining nine tenths of his share.

GEORGE SCHILLING AND MISS FREIDA BRAUN MARRIED SUNDAY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schilling at Coopers Grove was the scene of a pretty autumn wedding Sunday afternoon when their son George and Miss Freida Braun, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Braun of Homewood were united in marriage.

The bride was prettily gowned in white beaded canton crepe with a train of silver beads. She wore a veil in the new style cap effect.

The bridesmaids were Miss Marie Schilling, a sister of the groom. She was dressed in the new shade bluish green georgette beaded dress and Miss Helen Ganzer of Blue Island, who wore an orchid and white crepe beaded dress.

The best men were Walter Schilling, brother of the groom and Elmer Hunstock.

There were two pretty little girls Lucille Schilling, niece of the bride and Mildred Reinholdt of Chicago. They were both dressed alike in yellow crepe de chine and carried gold and blue baskets filled with yellow chrysanthemums.

After the ceremony a most bountiful supper was served to about 200 guests. Miss Alice Schilling played the wedding march as the bridal couple marched into the dining room which was decorated in pink and white.

Mr. and Mrs. Schilling received many useful and pretty gifts. Their many friends wish them a happy married life.

MOKENA CENTRAL HAS NO DIRECT TOLL LINES

Subscribers of the Bell Telephone Company at New Lenox and Mokena are very much displeased with the new ruling of this company which has eliminated the line between New Lenox and Mokena this line being used for free service and toll.

The new ruling makes the service rotten between these two exchanges. As an example of the wretched service, here is an illustration: Rev. A. L. Brown, pastor of the Marley Community church has part of his congregation members in Mokena and part in New Lenox exchanges. The other day he tried to get a number in the Mokena central and it took him nearly an hour before he was able to get his party.

As the Bell Telephone Company boasts of one company and universal service, the kind of service now encountered belies the company's slogan and there is no excuse why such service should exist.

The News-Bulletin would suggest that all the business people using the Mokena and New Lenox exchanges enter a protest to the telephone officials demanding that the line between New Lenox and Mokena be re-instated or its equivalent in service.

Mokena has absolutely no toll

Peter McCarthy

Universalist church, Joliet; The Rev. Carey Moser, of the Ridge-wood Baptist church; The Rev. P. A. Sorensen, of the First Lutheran church; The Rev. J. J. Johnson of the Swedish Mission church, and the Rev. Dack of the Grace M. E. church.

Other speakers will be announced later.

Supt. McCarthy's report for the fifteenth year of the mission's activity show 559 conversions; 5,142 free meals given out; 1,224 men in his seven free lodgings; clothing distributed to 1,079 persons free of cost; 315 visits to the police court and jail; 1,200 gospels and three bibles given away, and railroad fare home paid for 40 run away boys and girls.

Supt. McCarthy has also spoken in 23 different churches and missions in the past year, including several churches in New York City and New Jersey.

MOKENA R. N. A. HAS 15TH BIRTHDAY PARTY

The Mokena Royal Neighbors celebrated their 15th anniversary Monday night November 10th at Pfleger's hall. This fraternal society is nearly 100 strong as 4 members have died since organized and many have transferred to other camps. After the business meeting a social time was enjoyed at the close of which refreshments were served.

BANK ROBBERY SUSPECTS RELEASED

George Touzen and his partner James who were held at the Will County jail in Joliet as suspects in the Mokena State Bank robbery case have been released from custody the past week. The sheriff's office did not have sufficient evidence to connect these men with the robbery so they were released.

It is said James has gone to Milwaukee while Touzen was seen in Mokena Wednesday. Thus far no trace has been found of the robbers.

WALTER FISHER IN- STALLS RADIO IN STORE

Walter Fisher, well known Mokena merchant has installed a radio in his store and is welcoming everybody to visit his store to hear the latest radio programs. This is affording much entertainment for both young and old.

The only outside lines are two free service lines to Frankfort and they are often so congested with calls that it is difficult to get any decent service on them.

CLERK OF WILL COUNTY SAVES TAXPAYERS A BIG ELECTION BILL

Much money was saved in the printing of the Will County ballots in the recent election thru the foresightedness of County Clerk Albion F. Delander.

Mr. Delander after much investigation came to the conclusion that it would mean a big saving to Will County to have all the public policy question ballots printed on one sheet instead of five separate ballots.

Very few voters who voted at the recent election realized perhaps what this meant to them. In the case of the voter it meant that instead of having five small and separate ballots to wrestle with in the booth, he had the whole five public policy questions in a convenient form on one sheet and this enabled him at a glance to go over the propositions without unfolding each ballot separately.

This meant a big saving in the time of voting. By having all the questions printed as one ballot they received more votes than they would have otherwise.

This new form also saved much time for the judges of election which made the task of counting the ballots a much easier one than would have been otherwise.

Mr. Delander deserves much credit for his foresightedness and resourcefulness. He made a painstaking inquiry of various counties in the state as to methods they were going to use in having these ballots printed and found but few that adopted the same idea as he had. This is said to have been the first time in the history of Will County that a plan of this kind was carried out in which time and money was saved for the taxpayers and voters of the county in printing and preparing of the election ballots.

THIS TAKES THE CAKE

It is no wonder that some of our small towns do not progress when they have such narrow minded so called business men as we heard a story about the other day. In this instance a certain merchant had installed a radio in his store. Naturally as this was a novelty quite a number of people were attracted to the place. Among these was a customer of a rival store and when he was seen by the storekeeper of the store in which the radio had been installed he was told that the radio was only for his customers to listen to and that his presence was not desired. This sure takes the medal of any kind for sheer business jealousy and narrow mindedness. This is one specimen of the so called "progressive merchant."

MOKENA LUTH. CHURCH TO MAKE SURVEY

The United States calls itself a Christian nation and wishes to be classified as such, yet of the 110,000,000 inhabitants in our country only 43,000,000 profess church membership. Less than one half of our population is actually affiliated with some church. Thus almost 70,000,000 in the United States are unchurched. They heedlessly and recklessly go on their way. Their foot never crosses the threshold of God's house; They never hear a word of comfort or a word of hope for their souls. In our own state millions are walking in darkness, and in Northern Illinois alone over 2,000,000 know no more about Christianity than the poor idol worshippers in benighted India.

But the Lord who so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son into death for its sins wants these people saved. We read in Ezek. 33: 11 that He has no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but that He wants the wicked to turn from his way and live, and in 2 Peter 3:9 we find the words; "The Lord is not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance." For that reason He gave to His church the command to preach the gospel to every creature, to carry on mission work and to seek that which is lost.

In cognizance of this, the Northern Illinois District of the Ev. Luth. Missouri Synod in its last synodical conference decided upon conducting a house to house canvass thruout the northern part of our state, and in this way to locate all the unchurched and to invite them to come to Christ. The local Lutheran congregation will also carry its share of the burden. In the near future every house in Mokena, Frankfort and New Lenox and every farm house in between these villages will be visited by a canvasser. Such readers who already are members of a congregation are asked to give the canvassers this information, and such who are unchurched will please read the literature given them and accept the invitation of the canvasser to attend services, for the welfare of their own souls.

Horse Markets Coming Back

Horse markets are coming back. As both farm and city are demanding more and better horses, better prices may ultimately result, according to the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation based on a study of the trend in the buying power of farm horses during the past 57 years.

Low prices probably will continue to discourage horse and mule production and cause a falling off in the equine population until average prices return, the Foundation believes. But already horse breeding operations have begun to expand in the districts possessing the kind of foundation stock capable of producing the sort of horses the market wants. Attractive prices are now being paid for all good, big sound shapely drafters coming to market and good horses of the wagon type weighing 1,400 to 1,600 pounds. Prices have advanced from the extreme depression of two years ago.

How soon the turning point will be reached on the rank and file of horses is uncertain. Previous cycles of horse and mule prices as shown by the accompanying chart have varied greatly in length. The first lasted eleven years from depression to depression, the second eighteen years and the present cycle is already twenty-seven years. It seems logical to believe that an upward turn in prices which will last for a decade or longer will start before long and that good horses and mules produced from matings in the next few years will get the benefit of that advance by the time they reach marketable age. Good horses are the exception on farms today. It is unthinkable that good farmers will be content with plugs for long.

IT PAYS TO MARKET BEEF OF QUALITY

It is condition and quality rather than weight that decide whether a steer is to be placed in the beef cattle classification. Within the class it is condition and quality that largely determine the amount of profit that goes to the shipper. Choice to prime steers bring from 75 cents to $5.75 per hundred-weight over the common light stock, according to a study made of lightweight steers coming to the Chicago market by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation.

The bulk of the shipments are classified under the grades of prime steers, 1,200 to 1,600 pounds; choice steers, 1,150 to 1,600 pounds; good steers, 1,150 to 1,600 pounds; medium steers, 1,100 to 1,400 pounds, and common rough steers, 1,000 to 1,200 pounds. These are the classifications of the United States Bureau of Markets.

Prime beef steers are the ideal type, combining exceptional breeding and thorough finishing. Short neck and short legs, smooth flesh and well-filled, bulging briskets are prerequisites. Prime beef steers are rare, even steers good enough to grade as choice are few. They show most of the characteristics of the prime grade, good breeding and long feeding, smooth flesh and thick fat. On the block the quality steer will show a good proportion of red meat covered with a modest amount of smooth white fat. The lean, while firm of texture, will be mellow to the touch. The carcass should carry down full to the hock, being highly marbled with bright lean of a fine grain.

Junior Farmers Need Club Leaders

That club leadership must be increased properly to train the boys and girls of the nation who decide to remain on farms and become the bulwark of American agriculture is shown in a survey of the club work of the junior farmers just completed by Benjamin H. Darrow, director of the boys' and girls' club work of the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation.

According to the report of the Foundation, based on a count by the Department of Agriculture, 722,408 projects were begun in 1923 by 459,074 boys and girls, a number which is less than 6 per cent of the farm youth of the nation of club age. Of these projects 429,746 were completed by 249,416 club members. Girls completing their work outnumber the boys three to two, there being 150,194 girls and 99,222 boys. The report also indicates that 55.6 per cent of the enrolled girls finished their projects, while only 52.9 per cent of the boys completed theirs. The high point reached in 1918, as shown by the accompanying chart, was due to the expansion of club work in connection with the slogan of the day: "Food will win the war." After the crisis was over there was retrenchment and club work suffered.

"Many of the 8,000,000 boys and girls engaged in club work hope to leave the farm," said Darrow, "but 80 per cent of them will remain in the country, experience has shown. All who stay on the farm should have the benefit of the inspiration and training club work affords. If we are to provide this for the junior farmers of the nation, we must rapidly increase the number of club leaders."

STEPPING AHEAD OF THE BANK CROOK

Bankers Association Official
Gives Rules to Foil Criminals and Avoid Loss.

By JAMES E. BAUM,
Manager Protective Department
American Bankers Association

The direct cost of all crimes in this country has now reached its highest peak. Statistics reveal startling increases in nearly every type of crime during the past ten years. The total financial loss through the operations of criminals is estimated at more than $3,500,000,000 for this year. A few of the items follow:

Embezzlement	120,000,000
Credit frauds	400,000,000
Burglary, larceny, and petty thefts	250,000,000
Forgery, including worthless and bogus checks	100,000,000
Seaport robberies, pilferages and customs frauds	100,000,000
Railroad thefts	25,000,000
Stock frauds	1,700,000,000
Insurance frauds	1,000,000,000
Arson	50,000,000
Miscellaneous	75,000,000

I am giving cold figures, not to startle any one unless it be toward more extreme care in handling and safeguarding funds and valuables. Right here let me quote rules to help foil criminals known as "check passers" or "scratchers"; they will help you to avoid serious loss:

1. Never write checks with a pencil. Use pen and ink or, if possible, a check protector.
2. Fill in all blank spaces.
3. Don't erase. Errors should be corrected by writing a new check and destroying the old one.
4. Never give a blank check to a stranger and never cash a stranger's check without an indorsement which you have positively verified.
5. Make checks payable to "cash" or "bearer" only when you personally present them at your bank. Otherwise use the name of the person you intend shall receive payment.
6. Never place your signature alone as an indorsement on checks you intend to deposit. Write above your signature the words "For deposit only."
7. Never sign blank checks. If you expect to be absent any length of time open a separate account subject to check of your employee or agent.
8. Guard your cancelled vouchers as you would a valid check, leaving none where they may be easily taken.
9. Keep your check books securely locked up and be careful how and where you sign or exhibit your signature.
10. Beware of the magic of the word "certified." Ordinary certification stamps can be duplicated almost as easily as any other rubber stamp.
11. Watch checks which apparently bear the makers' "O. K." or other form of approval. They are more easily forged than the full signature.
12. Safeguard your checks as you would your money, for they represent money.
13. Deposit slips provide space for your name, usually upon the upper lines. Those written incorrectly should be destroyed as otherwise your signature will be available for fraudulent use. You can prevent loss by first writing the details of amounts deposited and then printing your account name.

The bankers' campaign for every body to "pay by check" has borne fruit. It has been estimated that to day more than 95 per cent. of the business of the U. S. is transacted by the use of checks or other credit instruments. That means about six and one-half million checks will be written by bank depositors in this country during 1924 and they will total about $500,000,000,000 in amount, or one hundred times the money in circulation.

Banks War on Crooks
The average bank depositor when queried as to what his bank does to protect his deposits, will probably tell you they are kept in a great vault and that armed watchmen are employed as well as an elaborate and efficient burglary and robbery alarm system. He may not know that the 23,000 banks comprising the American Bankers Association have constantly and conveniently available an army of highly trained specialists who wage a continuous and relentless warfare against the bank criminal. These operatives are within easy reach of any member bank. Criminals know that if they attack a member bank they are attacking one of the most powerful and effective protective organizations in existence.

Another medium by which bankers prevent many financial crimes or losses is the warnings continually broadcast from the American Bankers Association and forty-eight state bankers associations. These warnings keep the trap constantly set and carry out the Association's plan of crime prevention as contrasted with detection.

Danger Ahead

American farmers should not increase their wheat acreage for 1924. If they increase the acreage by three million acres, as is indicated by the Intentions to Seed Wheat Survey of the government, and normal conditions again prevail in other wheat producing countries, next year's wheat market will be glutted and once more wheat prices will be ruinously low. The present high price of wheat is due to poor crops in other countries and in certain sections of the United States—W. M. Jardine, Advisory Council, Agricultural Commission, American Bankers Association.

Where Bankers Come From

The smaller localities are to a large extent the recruiting ground for the profession of banking. A recent survey discloses the fact that of 682 senior bank officers in the largest cities of the United States, 406, or 60 per cent, were born in the country or in small towns.

Of the 682 senior bankers of large cities, 427, or approximately 62 per cent, had a high school or college education. The conclusion is reasonable that the smaller environment, coupled with an education, makes for success in the banking field.—American Bankers Association Journal.

MOKENA

The Mokena school remained closed all day Tuesday in observance of Armistice Day. Outside of this the day was of generally observed here.

From present indications it looks as the Mokena is going to enjoy a boom. The Arthur McIntosh Co., realtors of Chicago who have purchased the former Maltby farms known as the Mokena Farms are planning to lay this land out in a sub-division it is said. This is one of the largest real estate concerns in Chicago and if they take hold in bodmimg Mokena, this town will be on the map. More new people and more homes will greatly help in the development of Mokena. The Rock Island is furnishing excellent transportation and with all modern conveniences at hand there is no reason why this town should not boom.

The Schacht residence is being remodeled and a coat of stucco is being applied preparatory to the moving in of the Frank Schacht family of Chicago.

Next the captain turned to Lord George. Captain Bunker had his own opinion about so-called noblemen; he distrusted them and their credentials on principle, and set little store by the fact that Lord George had been introduced by another nobleman. Only the fact that Lord George had been indubitably popping away with his rifle from the quarter-deck all afternoon prevented Captain Bunker from taking him to task directly. He did question him shrewdly as to the bottles at which he had been firing. But he got no results; though apparently open and frank to the limit, Lord George gave no information of the slightest value; and Captain Bunker was unable to decide whether this was because he was exceptionally shrewd or entirely ignorant.

Last, the captain sought out Miss Denslow, and inquired into her whereabouts during the afternoon, and found that she was fully accounted for.

There remained only Mrs. Archman's maid, in the family employ for twenty years, who had been with her mistress nearly all afternoon, and who seemed entirely incapable of carrying through such a desperate enterprise as safe robbery.

Mrs. Archman, Harry and Bess seemed above suspicion; and any lingering doubts that Captain Bunker may have entertained as to the complicity of any one of them, or of the maid, were dissipated as he reflected that they really could not possess the technical skill necessary to open a safe by fingering the tumblers of the lock. Only a person of unusual skill and of long training could possibly have done this.

Captain Bunker was forced to conclude that some member of the crew had taken desperate chances and ventured aft, where he had no business, and had succeeded in reaching the cabin and getting into the safe. Investigation, however, cast no slightest shadow on any one of the men.

Bess knew how busy Captain Bunker had been and so tried to hold herself in leash away from him, as not to add to his annoyance. All the early part of the evening she lay in her chair, listening to the chat of the others, especially to that of Lord George.

When the steamship started again Bess rose from her chair. "I'm going to the bridge," she announced. Harry looked up. "Captain Bunker won't want you," he began. Then, noting that his sister had waited for no comment, he turned to Lord George with a laugh. "We men will have to get up an association in America to regain our rights," he said.

Lord George did not answer for a moment. Then he started. "Oh! Ah! Yes! Quite so, old chap," he answered, heartily but vaguely.

Harry stared at him, but the Englishman said no more, and after a moment Harry got up and wandered away forward.

Meanwhile Bess had ascended to the bridge and had gone to Captain Bunker's side. "I couldn't stay away any longer, captain," she murmured. "I was too anxious. Have we dodged them?"

Captain Bunker turned a dim face to the girl. "I think so," he said. "At all events we're going in."

"Going in?"

"Yes. We've just passed Lobos Island. Yonder it lies." He pointed to the east, but Bess could see no trace of the blacker shadow of the land. "Our destination is just ten miles due south. It's the island shown in that map your mother brought me."

"Oh!" In the stress of the greater emotion that had arisen out of the violation of the instructions, Bess had forgotten the map. "Is it the right map?" she asked. "I have forgotten to ask."

"Yes; it's the right map." Captain Bunker looked about him long and steadily. Then he turned to his first officer. "Keep her as she is, Mr. Collins. 'He's instructed. 'I'm going to the chart house.' He glanced at Bess. "Will you come, Miss Archman?" he invited. "I want to talk with you."

Bess went very willingly. Captain Bunker led the way to the chart house, and held open the door for her. That young woman stared into the blackness, then stepped in, and waited while Captain Bunker closed the door, shutting out the faint light that leaked from the clouded stars. She heard the captain moving about in the darkness, apparently blanketing the windows; then she heard a faint click, and saw a closely shaded electric bulb glow out, throwing a cone of light upon the table in the center of the room. By its aid she made her way to a chair beside the table and sat down.

Captain Bunker sat down opposite her. "Here is your map," he said, laying the muddied, bloodstained square of parchment on the table. "And here is the chart of Moro Island, the spot where my instructions bid me meet your father. As you see, they are the same, except that the government chart shows no red lines."

Bess stared at the chart in feverish excitement. Undoubtedly Captain Bunker was right. The outlines of the island on the map and chart were plainly the same. The parchment map, however, was on a much larger scale; when Bess laid it on top of the government chart it hid a whole group of islands of which it formed a part.

With sparkling eyes, she looked up at Captain Bunker. "There is nothing on your map to show whether the island is one mile or fifty miles in length," he said. "But the government chart shows it to be about five miles long and three miles wide, and to consist chiefly of an extinct volcano. This red line"—he pointed it out with a stubby forefinger—"comes down to the water on the east side. My instructions say the northeast side, and that is perhaps near enough. At any rate, we will go to the end of the red line first. The other islands of the group are placed so as to form a sort of natural harbor with fairly good anchorage."

"I see," Bess could scarcely sit still. "And what do the crosses mean? Treasure?"

"Lord knows. I don't," answered Captain Bunker seriously. "Of course a map like this suggests buried treasures."

"I See," Bess Could Scarcely Sit Still. "And What Do the Crosses Mean? Treasure?"

ure and other accompaniments. But, of course, Mr. Archman isn't the man to take his daughter on a chase after treasure, so we can leave that out."

"Oh!"

"Yes; we can leave that out." Captain Bunker spoke severely. "And thank God for it! I went treasure hunting once in my young days and I had my fill of it. It isn't the romantic child's play you young people think. This isn't treasure hunting, but I'm afraid it's worse. It seems very plain to me now that somebody committed murder to get this map. They failed at first, but they succeeded later. Then finding that it did not give complete information, they sent it to your mother, hoping that she would do exactly what she did do—send it to your father by someone whom they could follow. That they have followed is proved by the fact that my safe was robbed, and the fact, if it is a fact, as I strongly suspect, that they are trailing us in another ship. This thing is mighty serious. I only hope we'll find your father and sister alive!"

Bess' face had grown paler and paler. "Alive?" she gasped. "You don't think that—"

"No; I don't; after all." Captain Bunker caught himself up in swift contrition. "No; I don't. They're probably all right. If these scoundrels knew where to find them, they wouldn't be following us. But the situation is certainly alarming. If I could only find the spy—but I can't. What I particularly wanted is to ask you to notify me of the smallest suspicious thing that you may notice. Don't stop because you think it may be a hoax."

Suddenly Bess remembered the man's and woman's voices she had heard apparently proceeding from Harry's cabin and his denial of having been one of the talkers. It had seemed a very trifling thing at the time, but in view of what had happened since, it perhaps became important. "There's just one thing, captain," she said. "It's like this, and she went on and told of the event."

Captain Bunker brought his fist down with a crash. "There isn't but one woman it could have been," he rasped, "and she—"

A tap at the door made him break off and lift his hand to the electric bulb overhead. The light snapped out. "Come in," he called.

The door opened and a man's head appeared against the dim sky. "Mr. Collins says will you please come on the bridge, sir," said a voice.

"All right," Captain Bunker turned to Bess. "I'll look into the matter, Miss Archman," he said, as he rose and hurried out of the room, followed more slowly by Bess.

The El Rio was approaching the land, whose loom Collins had made out. Captain Bunker rang his engines off and on and kept the engine-room telegraph spinning like mad. A rift in the clouds ahead was growing momentarily brighter; the captain watched it and swore softly to himself.

Brighter grew the rift and brighter, changing from a rift to a gash, and widening, till abruptly a fat, yellow moon gleamed out for an instant, then slipped away again. It had stayed just long enough to show a black island, with a mountain peak thrusting high above it.

Captain Bunker rasped an order and the wheel spun madly. The El Rio turned on her heel and darted westward for a little way, then headed south into the mouth of an invisible channel.

Steadily the steamship went on, till even Bess could see the peak of the mountain a little off the port bow and could make out a lower lump of land that ended with a smother of white foam to starboard. She looked aft and saw that the two lines of foam had arisen apparently out of the sea and seemed to be closing in behind the vessel. Then suddenly they began to move swiftly to starboard. Bess started, looked around and saw that the peak of the mountain had swung far to port, and she realized that the El Rio had passed into a harbor and was turning, probably to seek some anchorage screened from the outside view.

Involuntarily she spoke. "Good! Good!" she exclaimed. "We've dodged them. We're safe."

But even as she spoke a sudden glare filled the night, sending its brilliant gleam over miles of heaving waters, lighting up the quarterdeck, the breaking waves, and the tall cliffs that rose on three sides.

Someone had set fire to a red flare placed upon the taffrail.

CHAPTER X

Behind the Island

Bess was up early the next morning. El Rio lay nearly quiescent on a silver and gold flecked sea that rocked to the base of the bounding mountain peaks. To right, to left, behind, before, rose islands. Bess knew by the chart that there were many of them, but where one began and another ended, she could not see; their outlines melted indistinguishably into each other.

To the west lay the Island of the chart, bathed in sunlight and easily recognizable by its shape, a tall, apparently flat-topped peak which rose with amazing steepness out of a hump of tree-clad rounded hills that sloped downward gently to twenty or thirty feet above the water and then broke away abruptly to the sea as if cut by a gigantic knife. There seemed to be no beach, the shores rising sheer from the water's edge. No sign of a dwelling place, not even the smoke from a fugitive fire, rose to tell that the island had any inhabitants at all.

Disappointed, Bess once more scanned the waters of the bay, but detected no sign of life. The broad bay seemed utterly deserted.

Bess glanced up at the bridge and saw there the tall figure of the first officer, Mr. Collins, instead of the bulky frame of Captain Bunker, with whom she might discuss the situation.

The events of the afternoon and evening before were still unexplained, so far as the discovery of the spy was concerned. As to his object, there could no longer be any doubt. The red flare on the taffrail, following the secret examination of the sealed instructions, could have no other object than to give information to a pursuer.

When the red flare broke on the night, the quarterdeck was deserted both by passengers and sailors. Collins, springing from the bridge and rushing aft to hurl the treacherous light into the waves, had seen no one. All the passengers, except Mrs. Archman, who was in her stateroom, seemed to have been collected far forward, straining their eyes to penetrate the darkness into which the ship was heading. Captain Bunker's most strenuous inquiries failed to cast suspicion on anyone. And other inquiries, addressed to the crew, had, so far as Bess knew, met similar failure.

And there was no sign of any pursuer! Bess could only hope that, after all, neither floating bottle nor red flare had succeeded in carrying the spy's information to his patrons.

HOUSEWORK NOT DRUDGERY For Women In Good Health

Read How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Changed Conditions For These Housewives

Back Don't Bother Me Now

Lincoln, Nebraska.—"My back would bother me so and when I had to do any heavy lifting it made me sick to my stomach with the pains in my back. I have my housework to do and four babies to take care of so when I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I took it and I feel better. My back don't bother me and I can eat more and work. I do all my housework and washing for six in the family. I will tell other women to take the Vegetable Compound and you may publish my letter."—Mrs. CHARLES F. DOLEZAL, 1201 Garber Ave., Lincoln, Nebraska.

Felt Better At Once

Volga City, Iowa—"I will tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I was all run down and could hardly be on my feet. I was so cold I could not keep warm. I had numb feelings and then heat flashes would pass over my body. I had severe pains in my sides and was very nervous. I saw your advertisement in the newspapers so I thought I would try your medicine. My husband got me a bottle of the Vegetable Compound and I began to feel better as soon as I started taking it. I have taken it off and on for three years now. I keep house and do all my work for my husband and two little boys and make my garden. I feel fine and I tell others what the medicine has done for me. I think it is the best medicine in the world for women."—Mrs. THOMAS GRINDLE, Volga City, Iowa.

Can Do Any Kind of Work

Foulke, Arkansas—"I had the 'flu' and after that I had a pain in my side and was not able to do my work I was so weak. I found an advertisement in a paper and it told what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would do, and I took it. Now I can do any kind of work I want to. I think every family ought to keep it in the house all the time and I intend to do so."—Mrs. DORA PHILYAW, R.R. No. 2, Foulke, Arkansas.

Over 100,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

98 per cent of these replies are "Yes."

This shows that 98 out of every 100 women who take this medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This goes to prove that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure-all—can and does do good work. For sale by druggists everywhere.

Hark, Hark, the Lark!

A little daughter of the slums, on her first day in the country, saw a lark motionless, high in air, pouring forth its lovely music. She listened a moment, then she ran to the matron. "Oh, Miss May," she said, "there's a sparrow up there, and he can't get up and he can't get down, and he ain't doin' a thing but holler about it."

Autoists Carry Goat

Goat milk en route was enjoyed by a Colorado motor party recently. The camping party fixed a stall for a milk goat on the running board of their medium-sized auto and consequently had a supply of the milk on their transcontinental trip. The goat would eat leisurely even while the car was in motion.

REPUBLICAN RULE IN BOTH HOUSES

ADMINISTRATION'S SWEEPING
VICTORY CARRIES CONTROL OF CONGRESS.

That President Coolidge has been given a substantial working majority in both the senate and the house is most gratifying both to Mr. Coolidge and his co-workers. As the final "returns" were flashed in, showing the emphasis which had been placed upon the importance of giving the President the "backing" he desired, the magnitude of the greatest of all presidential elections was fully realized, for never before have the voters of the country more emphatically expressed their sentiments.

Several important items mark the election of President Coolidge as most remarkable in such events. Among them may be enumerated the generous support that was given in the election to the senate and house of members of the President's party—a substantial majority in both branches; what might have proved a thorn in the side of the President and his fellow-workers—the LaFollette faction—has been dispelled; the election was not thrown into congress as had been feared; approval of President Coolidge's course by approximately 18,000,000 votes.

Deeply grateful for "the faith and confidence" expressed by the people at the polls, President Coolidge in a statement of appreciation said:

"It does not seem possible to me to make an adequate expression concerning the presidency of the United States. No other honor equals this, no other responsibility approaches this."

"When it is conferred by an overwhelming choice of the people and vote of the electoral college, these are made all the greater."

"I can only express my simple thanks to all those who have contributed to this result and plainly acknowledge that it has been brought to pass through the work of a Divine Providence, of which I am but one instrument."

"Such powers as I have I dedicate to the service of all my countrymen. In the performance of the duties of my office I could not ask for anything more than the sympathetic consideration which my fellow Americans have always bestowed upon me."

"I have no appeal except to the common sense of all the people. I have made no pledge except to serve them. I have no object except to promote their welfare."

The lineup of the next congress presents a situation that will further stress the support President Coolidge will have during the next four years. With Senator LaFollette so badly weakened that he will be of no danger to the interests of the party in control; with the defeat of Senator Mangus Johnson of Minnesota, representing the Farmer-Labor party. In fact, the senate situation is better from a Republican standpoint than any of the administration leaders had hoped for.

Causes of the Landslide.

Causes for a landslide in a presidential election always are discussed, after the smoke of the battle has cleared. The platforms adopted at the national conventions of the three parties are well known. The fact that LaFollette carried only his own state—Wisconsin, and that Davis could control only the so-called Solid South, and not all of that, showed the strength of President Coolidge. It is contended that the principal causes,

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge Sent Ballots by Mail

Washington.—The President and Mrs. Coolidge sent their ballots by mail to Northampton, Mass. The marking the ballots took place on the lawn south of the White House in the presence of newspaper men and photographers. Mr. Coolidge was carefully shielded from the curious on-lookers as to how he marked his ballot, but it is assumed he voted the straight Republican ticket.

aside from the preference of the majority of the voters for the present administration may be ascribed to the dissatisfaction of the labor element and the discontent of the farmers.

It is obvious that the voters of the country did not follow either Davis or LaFollette in their attempt to score the alleged corrupt acts of members of the last Republican administration against Coolidge personally.

Worried About "Silent" Vote.

There appeared throughout the campaign to be an apathetic condition, worried about. Yet a record vote was cast. President Harding's plurality of 7,000,000 in 1920 over James M. Cox was thought to be almost an impossible figure, yet Harding had no third party opposition, with the exception of Eugene V. Debs' 1,000,000 votes. LaFollette polled four times the Socialist vote of that year.

Pennsylvania appears to be the banner state for Coolidge with a plurality of about 1,000,000, and the President carried New York state by 900,000 Illinois by 900,000; California, regarded as likely to go to LaFollette, by 400,000; Indiana, claimed by the Democrats, by 300,000, and by a like figure he triumphed in Iowa.

President is Congratulated.

John W. Davis, the defeated presidential candidate on the Democratic ticket, telegraphed President Coolidge as follows:

"Permit me to congratulate you on your sweeping victory and to express the hope that your administration may by its success inure to the welfare of the country."

President Coolidge sent this reply: "Please accept my thanks for your message and my appreciation of the patriotic sentiments you express."

Senator Robert M. LaFollette, in his first public statement, commenting upon the election, said:

"The loss of this one battle in the age-long struggle is but an incident. So far as I am personally concerned, I am enlisted for life in the struggle."

"The progressives will not be dismayed by this result. We have begun to fight. There can be no compromise on the fundamental issues for which we stand."

Two Women Governors.

For the first time in the history of the country, at this election two women were elected as governors—Mrs. Nellie T. Ross, on the Democratic ticket, as governor of Wyoming. She is the widow of the late Governor Ross. Under the laws she will assume office as soon as she qualifies.

Mrs. Miriam Ferguson, also on the Democratic ticket, was elected governor of Texas. Her husband was formerly governor of the state.

There will be one woman in congress, Mrs. Mary T. Norton, a Democrat, from the Twelfth New Jersey district.

Several women were victorious candidates for election to state legislatures and other state offices, displaying a most important fact, that women are in politics to stay.

John W. Davis at Polls Early; Voted "Straight"

Locust Valley, N. Y.—With his campaign for the Presidency ended, John W. Davis utilized his prerogative as a private citizen to join the nation's army of voters. The nominee obeyed his own injunction to vote early by being among the first arrivals at the polling place in this village's little white frame "neighborhood house." Davis voted the straight Democratic ticket, Presidency down.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Should Use Swamp-Root

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation, send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing, be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

Lost When His Horse Won

A noted horse owner took his wife and five other women to see one of his horses perform. Such was his confidence that he said before the race:

"Now I will lend each of you women one hundred dollars to place. If the horse loses, you will owe me nothing. If he wins, you will each have a memento of the day."

The horse won.

"Nice offer you made the ladies, old man," suggested a friend.

"I thought so," said the horse owner.

"But do you know, only one of them refunded the loan."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Two Reasons for Bequest

An old lady who was making her will said suddenly: "There's that moth-eaten old carpet in the loft. I should like to leave that to my Cousin So-and-So."

Laxatives do not overcome constipation

LAXATIVES and cathartics provide temporary relief only. Their continued use leads to permanent injury. In time, says an eminent physician, an almost incalculable amount of harm is done by the use of pills, salts, mineral waters, castor oil and the like.

Physicians advise lubrication for Internal Cleanliness

Medical science has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus, Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water, it is harmless.

Take Nujol regularly and adopt the habit of internal cleanliness. For sale by all druggists.

A glib oil-stock salesman had just finished describing the glorious opportunities of his proposition to a prospective purchaser with the question: "What do you think about it?" "I think," drawled the previously bitten man, "that there is just one thing that saves you from being a bare-faced liar."

"What is that?" asked the salesman.

He sewed thirty minutes more before he could leave his room fully dressed.—Emporia Gazette.
